The sale of a business is a process, not an event. It is crucial to have your ducks in a row if you expect to obtain maximum value.

Join us on May 31 to hear from recognized experts who will help you identify the ducks to line up, and how to prepare them to march in the right direction. Learn about:

- Pre-sale business optimization and the impact of the sale process on operations
- Business valuation, financial diligence and key tax planning considerations
- Seller relationships with bidders and buyers

Even if the eventual sale of your business is a distant goal, we hope you can join us for some pointers on identifying a useful path.
